Wishes Night

The lumps and chunks and crumbs of them / the pith and mass, unsure they come the day undone to thaw the frost of day the fire hole a flush of heat a golden glow / the rams and boars and paramours / the peeping Toms and full plum sons all mill about to thaw themselves at night

bubble, trouble, trap of the hold tensely seeking relief of the cold

A break, the seam undone, they crave, grazing the surface for, a heat to hold against the numb and loneliness / a whisper and parts divide, swigging the eyes drink in a hope of coupling thick with thirst, not at rest, bubble about to burst seethe, to seethe against, breathe, breathe with and drink again / the giving in, to hope, to heed the thaw and ache / to urge and blend, bodies and earth body / the whole sky of desire break into or broken against / smashed and shapes change

The gurgle and gaggle and purl of the river / softly flowing by open palms / the song that sings one sings on
